“Mysteries of the Mounds: Symbolic Representations of Hopewell Culture from West Central Illinois.”

This slide-illustrated talk, based on decades of research, will focus on Illinois River Valley manifestations of Hopewell culture ca.100 BC – 300 AD. Hopewell, centered in the Midwest, is best known for very large geometric earthworks in Ohio, numerous mounds in Illinois, Tennessee and other areas, and for a widespread exchange network featuring exotic materials like obsidian, copper, and highly-crafted artifacts made from these materials.

FOSA is pleased to invite the Archaeological Society of Connecticut to this event. All current, paid-up members of either organization will be admitted without cost, including families with family memberships. A $5.00 donation is requested from all other attendees. FOSA tee shirts will be offered for $12.00.

BAD WEATHER ARRANGEMENTS: If weather requires cancellation, FOSA will post notices on WTIC (AM 1080) and on Channel 3 by 10 AM. If in doubt or unable to reach these sources, contact June Cooke (860/529-7139/ email jcooke@fosa.org), Mike Raber (860/633-9026), or Gary Nolf (860/399-5402). RAIN/SNOW DATE: SUNDAY, JANUARY 25, 2004.
