MUMMY Dearest:

Interpreting the Past Through Paleoimaging

A Special Presentation To Be Held Saturday, January 30, 2010
Smith Middle School Auditorium • 216 Addison Road, Glastonbury, Connecticut

1:00 FRIENDS OF THE OFFICE OF STATE ARCHAEOLOGY (FOSA) ANNUAL MEETING AGENDA

Welcome, Business Meeting, Nominations & Election of Directors & Officers

2:00 MUMMY DEAREST: INTERPRETING THE PAST THROUGH PALEOIMAGING

Archaeologists are now able to tell the stories of mummies, and long ago individuals and cultures by using new non-destructive technologies. Please join us for a compelling presentation by Professors Ronald G. Beckett and Gerald Conlogue, co-directors of the Bioanthropology Research Institute at Quinnipiac University (BRIQ). Beckett and Conlogue will feature BRIQ case studies to illustrate how the use of technologies such as Imaging CR, CT, MRI, and videoendoscopy enable archaeologists, anthropologists and scientists to interpret human remains and artifacts. Books by the professors will be available for purchase and signing
